Books and printed material:

Warm Up:

Students will first be introduced to the topic of Immigrants and Labor by completing a KWL chart. After they have completed the first section of the KWL chart, a guest speaker would visit the classroom to discuss her family’s history of traveling to America.

Instructional Strategies:

Lap book project – alternative assessment, small cooperative groups, constructivism teaching, guest speaker.
Homework and Practice:
Research material for factual information to be presented on the lap book.

Assessment Question:
List four jobs that were available to immigrants and what culture could be associated with each job.

Re-teach Activity:
Using a trade book, When Jessie Came Across the Sea, have students listen to the story and act out in small groups Jessie’s experience coming to America. Talk about why Jessie’s family was traveling, what they expected, what happened, and have the students infer what other families have experienced.

Extension Activity:
Interview family members to discover where your family emigrated from and for what reasons. Identify what jobs were acquired and what working experiences were like. Present information to the whole class.
